

WILDFIRE EMERGENCY RELIEF

In response to the 2026 wildfires, True North Aid continues to work alongside northern and remote Indigenous communities, providing essential resources and support as families navigate displacement, return home, and begin rebuilding.

Photos from a cultural event run for evacuated community members at Centennial College in Scarborough.

True North Aid is committed to moving forward, from immediate emergency response toward long-term recovery and rebuilding.

Our commitment extends beyond immediate emergency response.

We continue to support community-led recovery, helping families access essentials, restore their homes, and create opportunities for connection and well-being.

Essential Supplies: Providing funding for community essentials, including baby supplies, groceries, personal hygiene products, and other necessities identified by communities.

Recovery and Rebuilding: Supporting the replacement of furnishings lost to the fires, helping families restore comfort and stability in their living spaces.

Community-Led Support: Distributing gift cards for major retailers, giving community leadership and families the flexibility to prioritize their needs and purchase essential items.;

Children and Youth: Supporting recreational and cultural activities that bring youth and families together for joy, connection, and a sense of normalcy during displacement.

Communities Supported:

- Namaygoosisagagun First Nation (Collins First Nation)
- White Sand First Nation
- Sioux Lookout First Nations
- Gull Bay First Nation
- Kasabonika First Nation
- Cat Lake First Nation
- Matawa First Nations
- Eabametoong First Nation